Monthly Commentary

The Trium Multi-Strategy UCITS Fund continued its positive start to 2026, being up +0.2% in February, bringing YTD performance to +2.9% (N USD). This is well on track for the Fund's Cash +5% target return.

The Fund saw significant inflows, taking AUM close to $200mm. We took this as an opportunity to incrementally rebalance somewhat while allowing allocation-leverage to reduce a little in light of the volatile trading conditions we were seeing and anticipating. Consequently, allocation leverage at the end of February was c. 162%. This compares to c. 169% at the end of January and an average of c. 174% in 2025.

February proved a more difficult alpha-generating environment for our Fund, with only 2 of the 10 strategies posting meaningful positive returns. Pleasingly, we had tilted more capital into both of these strategies as part of our early-month rebalance, and the alpha generated from these strategies slightly offset the negative and flat returns from the other 8 strategies.

Global Macro

Contribution leadership within our discretionary macro strategies switched in February vs January. Our more trading-oriented macro strategy made the biggest contribution to February's performance. The main driver was its short exposure to DM Credit spreads. These widened as the market worried about the cost of AI implementation. Long positioning in selected EM sovereign and quasi-sovereign issuers also added to returns. FX trading was flat, while equity index positioning was a small detractor for the strategy this month.

Our Epynt thematic discretionary macro strategy, following a very strong 2025 and January 2026, was slightly down in February, with the largest detractors being long Carbon futures, which sold off nearly 15% on the back of European leaders voicing concerns about ETS, and risk-on positioning in Argentina, where prices decreased on weakening economic data.

Our Systematic Macro RV strategy was down a fraction as well. Positive returns were generated from FX sentiment and monetary policy-based momentum signals, as well as from its VIX strategy, but these were offset by losses from RV trades in commodity futures. Our systematic alternative growth strategy had another strong month, gaining from long exposure to gold and silver as well as rate dispersion positions.

Equity Market Neutral

Our Quant EMN - Avala Dynamic Equity – strategy followed a very strong 2024 and January 2025, with a slightly negative contribution in February. The “AI scare trade” adversely affected many companies, notably in software, media, logistics, insurance, and wealth management industries. The indiscriminate nature of these effects initially caused some unexpected short-term behaviour in some of the strategy's stocks, but over the month, these stocks eventually reverted to behaving in the usual and predictable manner based on objective evidence. The model with the biggest contribution was Beta Arbitrage, as low-beta stocks were generally less exposed to the AI scare trade than their high-beta counterparts. Variable bias also contributed as the strategy's long book exposure did well in a mixed market. Quantamental models were down as Growth characteristics were penalised. News Arbitrage also detracted from performance. The other models were broadly flat.

Our larger Discretionary EMN, the Emissions Improvers strategy, was up slightly following a strong January and 2025. The largest individual contributor in February was a French-listed utility, with utilities overall contributing to returns. Long positions in mining and shipping were also significant contributors. The largest individual detractor was a German-listed cement company. Long positions in solar and short positions in energy-related stocks also detracted from performance. Our smaller allocation to the Climate Impact discretionary EMN strategy was down a little in February. Its largest contributors were a French and a UK utility, while its largest detractors were a US packaging company and a US solar company.

Our catalyst-driven equity strategy was the Fund's main detractor this month, following a positive contribution in January. The market was distracted by AI issues, and pre-positioning into stocks ahead of expected catalysts was not rewarded this month.

Arbitrage Strategies

Our Convertible Bond Arbitrage strategy was flat in February, after a very strong January. Some issuers with exposure in AI are seeing very high volatility, which can make gamma trading challenging. The strategy is up strongly YTD, and the PM anticipates a strong forward-looking opportunity set.

Our Merger Arbitrage strategy was approximately flat in February. Global M&A activity is expected to remain strong in 2026, while the risk-adjusted return opportunity set appears to be stronger in International markets than in US markets.

Outlook

The Fund is off to a strong start in 2026 and is well on track, at this stage, to deliver Cash +5% again this year. However, we are cautious and, as described in the opening paragraph, we have somewhat reduced our allocation leverage. We see this as a temporary risk management move, as we are happy with the good balance of our uncorrelated strategies, each capable of delivering strong risk-adjusted returns in its own right and with low cross-correlation with our other strategies. We expect to increase allocation leverage to allow for enhanced returns once we see a more benign opportunity set for our strategies.

Please note that more information on the strategies contributing to the Trium Multi-Strategy UCITS Fund, including more detailed information on the performance drivers over the month and the Portfolio Managers' outlook for their strategies, may be found in the Monthly Newsletters for the respective strategies.

These may be found on Trium's website (trium-capital.com) or may be obtained by emailing our Investor Relations team: (IR@trium-capital.com).

- Foreign exchange risk: investments in the fund may be subject to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates.
- Derivatives & leverage risk: derivatives can change in value rapidly and may cause losses to any investment fund
- Credit Risk: the fund is exposed to the risk that the issuer of any debt securities invested in fails to meet its obligations.
- Counterparty/Custodial Risk: a counterparty with whom a fund contracts or a custodian holding a fund's assets may fail to meet its obligations or become bankrupt, which may expose that fund to a financial loss.
- Liquidity Risk: is the risk that there are insufficient buyers or sellers of a given investment to allow an investment fund trade readily which may impact the fund's performance or (in extreme circumstances) an investor's ability to redeem.
- Operational Risk: human error, system and/or process failures, inadequate procedures or controls can cause losses to any investment fund.

More information in relation to risks in general may be found in the "Investment Risks and Special Considerations" section of the prospectus. The fund may use leverage. The use of leverage creates special risks and may significantly increase the fund's investment risk. Leverage creates an opportunity for greater yield and total return but, at the same time, exposes the fund to greater capital risk than an unlevered vehicle.
